Hundredfold Life

PLUG THE THREE LEAKS
Hindering Your Growth

"I have come that they may have LIFE, and have it ABUNDANTLY."
JOHN 10:10

POTENTIAL: 100-FOLD FRUIT

Scripture reveals two major reasons people perish:

- 1) "Where there is no vision, the people perish" (Proverbs 29:18), and
- 2) "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge" (Hosea 4:6).

The Lord founded the earth by wisdom and established the heavens by understanding (Proverbs 3:19). As children of God, the Apostle Paul teaches that we are to be filled with the knowledge of His will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding, so that we may walk worthy of the Lord (Colossians 1:9–10). Satan understands the power of wisdom and vision.

Often, he muddies the waters by concealing the true causes of spiritual stagnation while magnifying the symptoms—especially the lack of fruit. Yet Jesus clearly revealed both the potential (a hundredfold harvest) and the three hindrances that prevent us from reaching that full potential in the Parable of the Sower. We must not be ignorant of the enemy's schemes but instead seek to understand the secrets of the Kingdom of Heaven (Matthew 13:11).

“Purifying and Empowering Families Across Generations.”

Nehemiah 12:30

Introduction

Families are the foundation of every community and the first altar where we meet God daily. In a world of rapid change, increasing isolation, and growing pressures on relationships, the renewal and purification of families has become more important than ever. Through faith, prayer, worship, meditation on God’s Word, and unity, families can experience restoration, healing, and empowerment across generations.

Nehemiah 12:30 reminds us: “When the priests and Levites had purified themselves, they purified the people, the gates, and the wall.” This powerful verse highlights a timeless truth: transformation begins within and then spreads outward. When families seek spiritual renewal, entire communities are strengthened.

Families: God’s Sacred Design

From the very beginning, God established the family as a place of companionship, protection, and blessing. Genesis 2:18 tells us, “It is not good for the man to be alone.” Families are God’s provision for love, support, and spiritual growth across generations. Within the home, parents and grandparents often serve as spiritual leaders - guiding, protecting, and nurturing the next generation. Daily family prayer becomes a spiritual barrier of protection against temptations, struggles, and challenges of life. When this spiritual covering weakens, families become vulnerable; but through prayer and unity, God restores strength and protection.

The Power of Daily Family Prayer

Daily family prayer and worship play a vital role in purifying and strengthening families.

1. Strengthening Spiritual Connection

Jesus said in Matthew 18:20, “For where two or three gather in my name, there am I with them.”

When families pray together, God’s presence becomes real in the home. Prayer deepens faith, strengthens bonds, and nurtures unity.

2. Cleansing and Healing Relationships

Prayer provides a sacred space for confession, forgiveness, and healing.

1 John 1:9 reminds us that God is faithful to forgive when we confess our sins. Family prayer helps release hurts, heal conflicts, and rebuild broken relationships.

3. Inviting Blessing and Protection

Numbers 6:24–25 declares, “The Lord bless you and keep you.”

Worshiping together invites God’s blessings and safeguards the family.

4. Modeling Faith for the Next Generation

Proverbs 22:6 encourages us to “Train up a child in the way he should go.”

Children who witness prayer at home grow up understanding the value of faith and dependence on God.

5. Strengthening Communication and Unity

Ecclesiastes 4:12 reminds us that “A cord of three strands is not quickly broken.”

Shared prayer fosters communication, understanding, and emotional connection.

6. Providing Hope in Difficult Times

1 Peter 5:7 encourages us to cast our anxieties on Him. Family prayer provides comfort and hope during life’s challenges.

7. Restoration of Prodigals

Luke 15:24 beautifully describes restoration: “He was lost and is found.”

Prayer opens the door for prodigals to return—not just physically, but spiritually and relationally.

Biblical Models of Faithful Families

Throughout Scripture, we see families transformed through faith and obedience.

Noah’s Family

In a corrupt world, Noah remained faithful. His obedience saved his family and preserved future generations (Genesis 6:18). One person’s faith can secure the destiny of many.

Abraham’s Legacy

God promised Abraham that his descendants would be as numerous as the stars (Genesis 22:17). His faith shaped generations and laid the foundation for the people of Israel.

Joseph’s Reconciliation

Joseph’s story demonstrates the power of forgiveness and communication. Despite betrayal, he declared, “God meant it for good” (Genesis 50:20). Healing and reconciliation restored his family.

Communication, Unity, and Teamwork in Families

Healthy families thrive on open communication and teamwork.

Proverbs 18:13 warns against answering before listening. Active listening, patience, and empathy help bridge generational gaps and strengthen relationships.

James 1:19 encourages us to be “quick to listen, slow to speak and slow to become angry.”

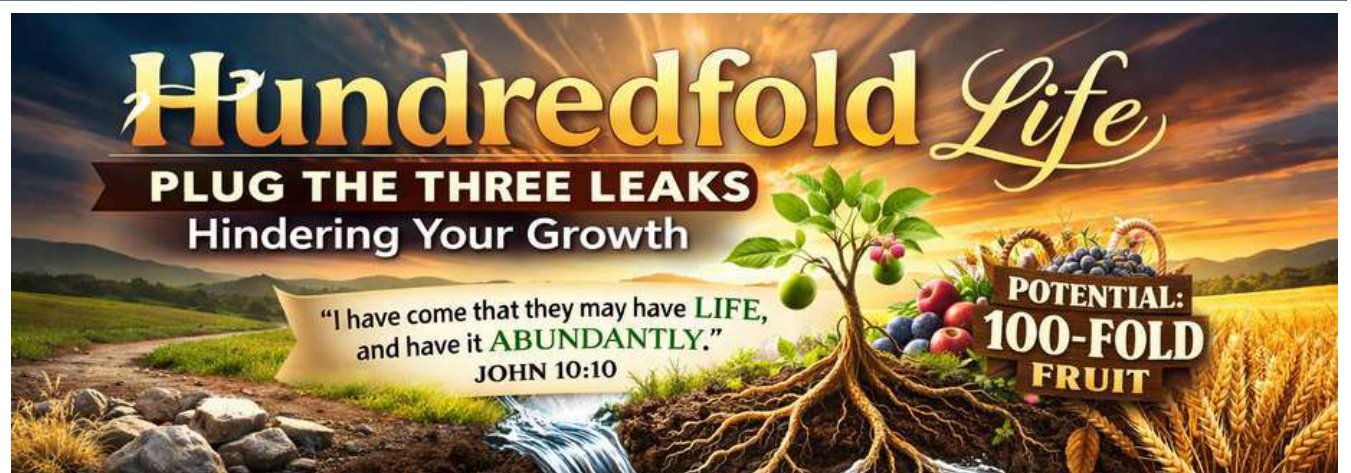

Unity is essential. Ecclesiastes 4:9–10 reminds us that two are better than one. Families that work, pray, and worship together build resilience and trust in God.

According to Jesus, there is only one way to produce a hundredfold harvest: remain in the good soil (Matthew 13:8). The seed—representing us—is not responsible for worrying about the growth process, the development of the plant, or even the fruit itself. Its one responsibility is to remain in good soil. As long as the seed stays rooted in good soil, everything else happens naturally. This is why Jesus taught us not to worry about our lives—what we will eat, drink, or wear. He said that such worries characterize those who do not know God. Instead, we are called to focus on One Worry: “Seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness.” When we do, everything else is added to us. Stay in the soil, and the fruit will follow.

It is believed that the Apostle John lived into his nineties. After returning from exile on Patmos, he wrote his Gospel in Ephesus to complement the Synoptic Gospels. While Matthew, Mark, and Luke emphasize the public ministry and teachings of Jesus, John highlights the private conversations and deeper revelations of Christ. John also uses the phrase “believe into” more than any other New Testament writer. “Believe into” implies movement, immersion, and union—being drawn into Him until His presence surrounds and reshapes us.

John draws a distinction between believing and receiving Jesus (John 1:11–12). In Jewish culture, receiving someone carried mutual responsibility. The one who receives is expected to rearrange his life to accommodate the guest—to bend over backwards, if necessary. The one who is received comes bearing a gift. Jesus fulfilled His part. He came bearing the ultimate gift—the Holy Spirit. The question is: Have we fulfilled ours? Do our priorities and plans revolve around Jesus? Does our daily schedule orbit our time with Him—or does prayer get squeezed into whatever time remains? Dwelling in good soil means keeping Jesus at the center of our plans. It means structuring our lives around our appointment with Jesus, not fitting Him into our margins.

1. Persecution

It is difficult to produce fruit when the roots hit stone. Many roots, by themselves, lack the strength to break through hardened rock. Likewise, trials and afflictions can discourage us and stunt our growth. Even the devil understood this principle. When he tempted Jesus to turn stones into bread (Matthew 4:3), he was challenging Him to bypass dependence on God. But Jesus showed us the true way to transform unyielding stones into nourishment is through prayer and obedience. Persecution is not overcome by force, argument, or retaliation—it is overcome in the secret place. Jesus modeled this consistently. Before every major decision and after every intense confrontation, He withdrew to pray. If we want roots strong enough to penetrate rock, they must first grow deep in prayer. Prayer turns stones into soil.

2. Peer Pressure

The human brain is wired to detect contrast and edges, yet it also adapts quickly. Over time, what once felt sharp and distinct can begin to feel normal. Spiritually, this is dangerous. The pressure to blend in, to identify with the world, or to soften our convictions can slowly desensitize us. Jesus described compromise as thorns that choke the seed—draining life and suffocating fruitfulness. The plant may still be alive, but it cannot thrive. The devil tempted Jesus to perform a dramatic act from the pinnacle of the temple—to gain validation and public acceptance (Matthew 4:5–6). But Jesus refused to manipulate God for applause. He would not pursue acceptance. But Jesus refused to manipulate God for applause. He would not pursue acceptance at the cost of obedience. Peer pressure is subtle.

It whispers rather than shouts. It suggests adjustment rather than rebellion. Yet even small compromises accumulate into spiritual suffocation. The solution is not to give in.

3. Premises

When seed falls on the path, it remains exposed. The birds see it easily and snatch it away. Sometimes the solution is not debate, defense, or discussion—it is departure. When the devil offered Jesus all the kingdoms of the world, Jesus did not negotiate. He did not explain Himself. He rebuked the enemy and ended the encounter immediately (Matthew 4:10).

This raises an honest question: Are we placing ourselves in environments and overstaying in such places that leave our seed exposed? It is time to look at the music we consume, the gatherings we attend, the content we watch. If we don't sense the influence early on, it may be too late and the seed will be snatched. Not every environment deserves our presence. Not every invitation requires acceptance. The solution is to discern and reject.

God has promised a breakthrough year in 2026. As seeds planted in good soil, let us prioritize staying rooted in the presence of God. Let us structure our schedules around Him rather than fitting Him into the margins of our day. Let us guard against: Persecution that weakens prayer, Peer pressure that normalizes compromise, Premises that expose us to unnecessary attack.

If we recommit to zero compromise in godly matters, the hundredfold harvest will not be a distant hope—it will be an undeniable reality.

Elevate A Million – Prosperity Rooted in Purpose.

Elevate A Million Private Limited (EAMPL) is a purpose-driven agri-technology enterprise committed to transforming India's agricultural ecosystem by empowering farmers, strengthening rural livelihoods, and delivering trustworthy food systems. Incorporated in June 2025 as an active private limited company registered in Kerala, India, EAMPL operates as a mission-oriented venture designed to bridge the gap between farmers, markets, technology, and consumers.

The company envisions elevating one million families toward economic independence by building transparent, traceable, and value-driven agricultural supply chains. Through farmer collectives, technology-enabled traceability, sustainable farming practices, and market integration, Elevate A Million seeks to ensure fair income for producers while providing consumers with safe, authentic, and responsibly sourced food products.

Aligned with the broader transformation taking place in India's agri-tech sector—where innovation, data, and market linkages are reshaping agriculture—EAMPL focuses on creating scalable rural enterprises that combine economic growth with social impact.

More than a business, Elevate A Million represents a movement toward regenerative agriculture, ethical commerce, and inclusive prosperity, positioning farmers not merely as producers but as empowered partners in a sustainable and resilient food future.

Arukash 2026 Empowering Community Leaders as Sustainable Change-Makers

The conference was inaugurated by Pr. Benny John, Regional Overseer of the Church of God (FC), Central Eastern Region, who challenged participants to embrace a vision of holistic ministry rooted in faith, service, and self-sustainability.

A New Generation of Tent-Maker Leaders

A central focus of Arukash 2026 was equipping participants to become “tent-makers”—leaders who can sustain their ministry and community work through professional skills and income-generating initiatives. The sessions moved beyond theory, offering practical strategies, tools, and real-world models for building sustainable community programs. The conference featured a strong panel of speakers and practitioners who shared their expertise across leadership, entrepreneurship, finance, education, and community development:

- Prof. (Dr.) P. J. George – Sustainable development and leadership
- Dr. Ravi Stephan – Holistic mission and community engagement
- Mr. Sathayavir Chakrapani, CEO, Shikar Micro Finance – Financial inclusion and livelihood models
- Prof. Antony Swamy – Social enterprise and leadership development
- Dr. Giby Raphael, CEO, Revobts – Innovation and technology for impact
- Pr. Imkong Sungit, Limitless Generation – Youth leadership and discipleship
- Pr. Benny John – Regional leadership and ministry sustainability
- Prof. (Dr.) C. P. Suresh, NEHU Tura – Education and academic empowerment
- Prof. (Dr.) Akali Sema, Nagaland University – Community and institutional development

- Through interactive workshops, participants explored:
- Sustainable income generation models
- Resource mobilisation strategies
- Project design and implementation
- Financial stewardship and micro-enterprise
- Leadership development and team building
- Technology and innovation for community impact

A Regional Movement for Community Transformation

Participants travelled from Meghalaya, Nagaland, Tripura, Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Sikkim, and Manipur, representing diverse communities and ministries. The gathering created a unique space for cross-state collaboration, shared learning, and the building of long-term partnerships.

By the end of the conference, leaders left with:

- Clear action plans for launching livelihood and community projects
- Practical tools to generate sustainable resources locally
- Strong networks of collaboration across Northeast India
- Renewed vision and confidence to lead transformative initiatives

Strengthening the Mission Ahead

Arukash 2026 was coordinated by Mr. Roy K Alex, Shalvin James, and John Alex, and jointly organised by P R Baby Foundation, Elevate A Million Pvt. Ltd, and Faithcity A.chik Foundation. The impact of this conference extends far beyond the three-day gathering. Each participant returned to their community equipped to initiate projects that will generate livelihoods, strengthen families, empower youth, and build resilient communities. Arukash is not just a conference - it is a growing movement of leaders committed to sustainable, faith-driven community development across Northeast India.

ACTS Team Siliguri, Darjeeling District King's Caravan 2.0, Leads a Powerful Anti- Drug Movement Across Northeast India

Pr. Joshua Pradhan
Director, South Asia
Action International Ministries
Siliguri - Darjeeling District
West Bengal

- Songs, skits, and messages highlighted the dangers of drug abuse
- Clear calls were made for healthy lifestyles and wise choices
- Youth were encouraged to pursue purpose, discipline, and hope
- Shopkeepers paused their work, families stepped out of their homes, and children ran alongside the Caravan—drawn by the vibrant atmosphere and the life-saving message of staying drug-free.

Measurable Impact Across Northeast India

The scale of impact during these four months was deeply encouraging:

- 15+ locations covered
- Thousands of individuals reached, including a large number of youth
- Anti-drug awareness delivered through:
 - Street rallies
 - Interactive talks
 - Music and creative communication
 - One-on-one counselling and prayerful encouragement

In regions where substance abuse has silently damaged families and futures, the openness and receptivity witnessed were unprecedented. Communities welcomed the team with respect, gratitude, and genuine interest, recognizing the urgent need for such initiatives.

Holistic Focus: Addressing Root Causes and Social Threats

Beyond drug abuse prevention, the King's Caravan emphasized a holistic approach to community wellbeing. Alongside anti-drug campaigns, the team conducted:

- Anti-Human Trafficking Awareness
- Education on youth vulnerability and protection
- Conversations on family strength, responsibility, and resilience

These initiatives sparked meaningful dialogue and empowered communities with knowledge, courage, and practical steps to safeguard their children and youth.

Introduction

From October 2025 to January 2026, ACTS Team Siliguri witnessed an extraordinary season of anti-drug awareness and community transformation through the King's Caravan - a dynamic mobile outreach platform dedicated to promoting drug-free lives, healthy choices, and hope - filled futures across Northeast India. Over four impactful months, the King's Caravan emerged as a moving beacon of awareness and prevention, reaching communities that are often underserved, vulnerable, and deeply affected by substance abuse. What unfolded during this period was not merely a campaign, but a grassroots movement—awakening consciences, educating young people, and strengthening families against the dangers of drugs and addiction.

Reaching the Unreached: Locations and Communities Impacted

The King's Caravan travelled to nearly 15 strategic locations, spanning:

- Urban neighbourhoods in Siliguri
- Rural villages and border communities near Bhutan
- Tea garden regions surrounding the city
- The hill areas of Mirik

Tea garden communities, in particular, became a major focus of the campaign. These areas - home to thousands of workers and their families - face high exposure to substance abuse, trafficking risks, and limited access to awareness programs. The Caravan's presence brought education, dialogue, and renewed hope directly to these communities.

Diverse Communities United for a Drug-Free Future

One of the most powerful aspects of the King's Caravan was its ability to transcend language, culture, and social barriers. Anti-drug awareness messages were shared in culturally sensitive and relatable ways, reaching people from diverse ethnic backgrounds, including:

- Bengali
- Nepali
- Adivasi
- Rajbanshi
- Santhali
- Marwari
- Tea garden worker communities

Young people, parents, and community leaders gathered willingly—listening attentively, asking questions, and engaging in honest conversations about addiction, peer pressure, prevention, and restoration.

A Christmas Rally with a Purpose: Awareness on Wheels

A major highlight of this outreach season was the Christmas Anti-Drug Rally, where the King's Caravan truck was transformed into a moving awareness platform. As the Caravan passed through busy streets and neighborhoods:

King's Caravan 2.0, Leads a Powerful Anti-Drug Movement Across Northeast India

Gratitude for Partnership and Support

ACTS Team Siliguri expresses heartfelt gratitude to all partners, supporters, and volunteers who made the King's Caravan available for this transformative season. This mobile platform has proven to be an exceptionally effective tool for awareness-building and community engagement.

The investment in this initiative has yielded long-lasting impact, planting seeds of change that will continue to grow in the lives of individuals and families.

Looking Ahead: Sustaining the Movement

As we reflect on these four months of intensive outreach, we look ahead with renewed commitment and expectation. Awareness has been raised, relationships have been built, and communities are now better equipped to resist the destructive grip of drugs.

The need remains urgent—but so does the opportunity.

Prayer and Partnership Opportunities

We invite friends and partners to stand with ACTS Team Siliguri through:

- Prayer for young people who heard the anti-drug message
- Support for continued awareness and follow-up programs
- Wisdom and strength for future outreach planning
- Open doors in high-risk and unreached communities

Together, we can help build drug-free, hope-filled communities across Northeast India.

Pr. Joshua Pradhan

“Purifying and Empowering Families Across Generations.”

Even the parable of the Prodigal Son illustrates the journey from detachment to restoration. It reminds us to keep our hearts open and ready to embrace those who return.

Staying Connected in a Modern World

Today, technology offers new opportunities for family unity. When members live apart, families can gather through WhatsApp or Zoom for prayer and fellowship. Distance should never become a barrier to spiritual connection.

By committing to daily prayer and unity, families create a legacy of faith for future generations.

A Legacy of Blessing

Exodus 20:5–6 reminds us that while the effects of sin may reach a few generations, God's blessings extend to thousands. Through repentance, faith, and daily prayer, families can break cycles of brokenness and establish a legacy of hope, healing, and spiritual growth.

Purification is not a one-time event—it is a lifelong journey. By choosing love over division, renewal over stagnation, and courage over fear, families can become powerful instruments of God's grace.

A Prayer for Families

Heavenly Father, we thank You for the gift of families. Guide us as we seek to purify our hearts and homes. Help us love unconditionally, communicate openly, and walk in unity. Heal past wounds, restore broken relationships, and fill our homes with Your presence. May our families become sources of hope, peace, and faith for generations to come.

In Jesus' name, Amen.

Prof. (Dr.) P J George
